

PRINCETON GRADS' OWN DAY

WEATHER FINE AND THE OLD FELLOWS IN HIGH FEATHER.

Dr. Wilson in Flannel Trousers Having the Time of His Life as a Parader—Presentations to the University of the New Dormitory, Campbell Hall.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 12.—It's always fair weather when the Princeton grads get together to come back to this college town for their annual reunions. Even as far back as Hell Devil Skillman can remember it has never rained on this day. And so when the thousands of visitors began to hit the town a few days ago and the weather was bad they just made up their minds that on Saturday it would be clear, and it was clear.

This has been one of the largest all around days that Princeton has seen in a long time. Of course, the great thing of the day was the baseball, which is the chief topic, and everybody is calling Myers a real hero. But there are other things too. John Dewitt, '04, appeared with his class in Scotch kilts, which was something to see. Fat Hen Munroe, also '04, had intended to don the Highland rig until they told him that they could not get a suit big enough for him. Hen was pretty sore about it.

There was a fine turnout of old grads to-day. The oldest crowd to "reun" was '69, back to celebrate their fortieth anniversary, and after that they came all the way down to the seniors, who are alumni except for the fact they won't receive diplomas 'till next Tuesday. The grads began to pour into town a couple of days ago, but hostilities weren't actually opened until when the cards admitting you and your friends to the big tents were passed out, everything free.

Outside of the fun of watching the "grads" and acrobatic greetings between "Spike" and "Bill," who hadn't seen one another for oh, such a long time, one of the most interesting things of the day was the presentation by the class of '77 of a magnificent new dormitory to the university. The building is called Campbell Hall in honor of one of the class's prominent members. President Woodrow Wilson accepted for the university.

Dr. Wilson in an eloquent address emphasized Princeton's new life, like gifts and compliments, and the spirit of the day, whereupon '77, which includes M. Taylor Pyne, George Armour, Dr. M. Jacobus and several other well known men, stood up and yelled just as they used to do years ago.

Then everybody hiked for hot lunch and departed for the field. The "pe-rade" was a good one. First came the "guard," followed by '69, '77, '78, '79, '80, '81, '82, '83, '84, '85, '86, '87, '88 and '89. President Wilson's class of '79 made a fine showing. Dr. Wilson himself was in the front rank, all decked out in orange and black and flannel trousers. He is here now for his thirtieth reunion and says he's having the time of his life.

The men of '89 tried to disguise themselves behind bushes of Dowie whiskers, but the students spotted most of them, and especially Prof. Robb, Robbins, "king of the absence committee."

The sacred cardinal bird, which was a sure hint for a victory, was carried by '89, who, by the way, looked like birds themselves. The "head game boys," they called him, was attended by two little black boys, who were clothed mostly in dimples. For cross the would make Jack Johnson look cross.

The 1901 killings were just about the nastiest looking crew in the whole procession. Their legs were fairly shapely. A sign which they carried announced that they have already twenty-six daughters and twenty-two sons.

After the game things began to get rather decently started at some one put it. The Triangle Club's "Duchess of Bluffshire" captured about a thousand visitors to-night, while others just stuck around and renewed old acquaintances. But everybody did something, and all night you could hear Gayle Young in front of the '02 reunion tent yelling, "Come on in, fellows, the excitement is in tents!"

SCHOOL OF HOUSEHOLD ARTS.

Teachers College Will Begin Substituting for Mamma Next Fall.

Teachers College, Columbia University, will open in September a technical school of college rank for women, the school of household arts. Besides training teachers in the household arts the school will endeavor to open new fields of technical service for women, as the engineering colleges have done for men.

The new school is to be housed in a studio and laboratory building that has been devoted to this school of art. The building is six stories tall and 160,000 feet in fully furnished and is "dedicated solely to instruction in the arts and sciences upon which rational household living depends."

One floor will be devoted to foods and cooking, one to textiles and needlework, one to the application of chemical and biological sciences in matters of household concern. There will be studios for instruction in the artistic aspects of the house and its decoration, laboratories for instruction in the management of laundries, a "model apartment," and other details indicating a comprehensive course of instruction. There will be courses for the domestic and courses in dressmaking and millinery and in the care of infants.

FORDHAM LAW COMMENCEMENT.

Sixteen Are Graduated With the Degree of LL. B.

Fordham University's school of law held its second annual commencement yesterday in the university theatre and sixteen young men received the degree of LL. B. The honors of the class went to Edmund Hurley. In the procession of the graduates, faculty and others which preceded the exercises were Justices O'Grady, Hendrick, Justice Mulqueen and Malone. Civil Justice Roesech, President Haffen of The Bronx and President Finley of the City College. Addresses were delivered by Justice Hendrick, Paul Fuller, dean of the law school, and the Rev. Daniel J. Quinn, S. J., president of the university; also by two of the graduates. Those who received the LL. B. degree were:

William T. Collins, Bernard F. Conahan, William J. Fallon, Charles B. Hermann, Clarence S. Heuer, Arthur J. W. Hilly, James D. Hines, Edmund Hurley, Paul T. Kaemerer, Jr., Francis Macpherson, Hubert A. McNally, Charles N. J. Keefe, Frank L. Pisan, L. Hamilton Bates, Robert R. Rosan and Owen S. N. Tierney.

HEALTH OF HARRIMAN.

Doctors Here Found That He Had No Organic Trouble.

Cable reports that E. H. Harriman is suffering from a complication of kidney and heart troubles were denied yesterday by Dr. Harriman's physician, Dr. William G. Lyle of 60 West Fifty-eighth street. Dr. Lyle said that before the railroad man left New York he had been examined by several physicians, who agreed that he had no organic trouble, although they did find that he was suffering from muscular rheumatism. Mr. Harriman is now visiting James Stillman in Paris. Thence he will go to Vienna for treatment at the hands of a specialist. He will be afterward take the baths in Germany.

Judge R. S. Lovett, Mr. Harriman's counsel, also discredited the report, in view of the fact that ever since his departure Mr. Harriman has kept in close touch with his affairs by cable, sometimes sending half a dozen code messages a day.

J. HEWITT MORGAN DEAD.

To Be Buried on Grindstone Island in the St. Lawrence—Son of D. P. Morgan.

WATERBURY, N. Y., June 12.—J. Hewitt Morgan of New York died at his cottage on the upper end of Grindstone Island last night after a prolonged illness, at the age of 39. He had been a summer resident of the Thousand Islands since he was a boy. He was well known by reason of his deep interest in anything that would uphold the St. Lawrence River as a summer resort. He was passionately fond of the river and of his last act was to direct that he be buried on his own island farm high up on a bank overlooking the St. Lawrence.

Mr. Morgan was a native of New York city and was a son of the late David Pierce Morgan. His mother is still living at 70 Park avenue, New York. Mr. Morgan was a Harvard man. Twelve years ago he married Miss Martha Hewitt, who survives him, with three children, Hewitt, Patrick and Clara.

Nearly twenty years ago he first came to the Thousand Islands and he had been a visitor here each season since then. He built a fine home at the head of Grindstone Island, where he lived with his family, remaining until late in the fall. He recently bought the house at 40 West Forty-eighth street, New York city, and he had a winter home at Aiken, S. C. He had been ill for several months and came here with his family from New York in April. His condition had been serious since that time, and he was taken to the hospital from the summer home on Monday, and burial will be as Mr. Morgan suggested, in a plot of ground overlooking the river.

STEPHEN TERRY DEAD.

Founded the Catholic Holy Name Society, Which Now Has a Million Members.

Stephen Terry, who in 1834 founded the Holy Name Society, which now numbers a million Roman Catholics banded together for the purpose of ending profanity, died at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home, 204 Fifth avenue, in his seventy-eighth year.

Mr. Terry was born in Limerick, Ireland, in 1832. He was 22 years old when he organized the Holy Name Society, and he was active in its work up to his last illness. He was married at the age of 45, and his wife and son, who survive. One of his daughters is the wife of Dr. F. L. Christian, superintendent of the Elmira Reformatory; another is Mrs. George E. Norton, in which city he was a member of the Board of Education, being trustee for the Eleventh and Seventeenth wards. He was also a City College trustee.

The funeral will take place Tuesday from All Saints Church, Madison avenue and 129th street.

Obituary Notes.

Stephen Holbrook Rhodes, president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company and formerly Mayor of Taunton, died at his home in Brookline, Mass., on Friday at the age of 67. He was a heart failure. Mr. Rhodes's business career began in Taunton in manufacturing and mercantile branches, in which he was successful. He became interested in life insurance. He was Deputy Commissioner of Insurance of the State of Massachusetts for many years thereafter was chief of the Department of Insurance. He resigned to accept the presidency of the John Hancock company, which he held until his death. For several years he was Mayor of Taunton, and in 1871 was a member of the State Senate. He is survived by his wife and by a daughter, who is the wife of Lieutenant-Commander James M. Rhodes, United States Navy.

THE FOUR DAY SAENGERFEST

PROGRAMMES FOR THE SPECIAL CONCERTS ANNOUNCED.

Julius Lorenz and Carl Hein to Be the Conductors—Schumann-Heink and Corinne Rider-Kelsey Among the Soloists—School Children in Chorus.

Julius Lorenz and Carl Hein, musical conductors of the saengerfest to be held in Madison Square Garden June 19 to 22 inclusive, have completed the programmes for the four artists' concerts which will be a feature of the festival. Members of the New York Philharmonic and the Metropolitan Opera orchestra to the number of 150 are to be heard in a number of special orchestral selections throughout the festival under both directors. The selections will include the "Festival Overture," by Lassen; a "Symphonic Scherzo," by Julius Lorenz; the "Coronation March," by Svendsen; "Leonor's Overture," by Beethoven; the overture to Wagner's "Tannhauser," the "Kaiser March," by the same composer, and the symphonic poem "Les Préludes," by Franz Liszt.

These four concerts will have the assistance of Mme. Schumann-Heink, who is to be heard on Sunday and Monday evenings, June 20 and 21, and Corinne Rider-Kelsey, who will sing at the reception concert with Claude Cunningham and the United Singers of New York on Saturday evening, June 19, when the principal number will be Max Bruch's cantata "Fair Ellen," and again on Sunday afternoon, June 20, with Daniel Beddoe in the school children's concert. This concert will be given by the Board of Education and is in charge of Dr. Frank R. Rix, Albert Caswell and Dr. Felix Jaeger, who is to conduct the orchestral numbers of this programme. Dr. Rix will conduct the numbers to be sung by the elementary school children and Mr. Caswell the numbers to be sung by the members of the high schools.

The selections to be sung at the concert include an arrangement of "Be Not Afraid," from Mendelssohn's "Elijah," and Sir Arthur Sullivan's famous hymn "The Lost Chord," in addition to compositions by Beethoven, Tannhauser and the programme is to conclude with Victor Herbert's American fantasia, the finale of which, "The Star Spangled Banner," it is to be sung by the children. The three other concerts of the festival will be known as the competitive concerts, in which the organizations from the four-city cities will participate for prizes which have been offered. On Monday afternoon, June 21, the societies of the second, third and fourth classes will compete. On Tuesday afternoon, June 22, societies of the first class and city and county federations of the first and second class will compete. These include the United Singers of Newark, N. J., 300 voices; United Singers of Philadelphia, 700 voices; the United Singers of Baltimore, 400 singers; 200 singers from Hudson county; 400 singers from Long Island City and 300 from Atlantic City, N. J.

The festival will conclude on Tuesday evening, June 22, when the famous Kaiser prize will be competed for by five societies are entered for this contest. They are the Kreutzer Club of New York, the Concordia Singing Society of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; the Junger Maennerchor of Philadelphia; the German Society of Newark, N. J., and the Arion Society of Baltimore, Md.

The song selected by the music committee of the festival to decide the test as to which society should get the Kaiser prize for the next three years has been especially composed for the occasion by Matthias Neumann and entitled "The Warning of the Rhine." In addition to this each organization is permitted to sing a second number of its own selection.

Taft to Lay Chelsea Y. M. C. A. Cornerstone.

BOSTON, June 12.—President Taft will lay the cornerstone of the new Chelsea Y. M. C. A. building. The date for the exercises has not been set, as it will depend largely upon the president's convenience in being present.
